People believe they are buying from Amazon

The primary difference between Amazon and eBay is that most people regard the fo rmer as a mega-seller of a diverse range of products rather than as an online sh opping portal that facilitates the actual interaction of buyers and sellers. It happens because of how people land on Amazon. They start with a quick product se arch on search engines like Google. Then, they choose to visit the Amazon websit e containing the relevant product. If they search by keyword or brand name on Am azon, they are directed to a page displaying a few relevant listings. Your customers can be as busy as you are.
